8. ACTION ITEM: The PEG Ketchum Hotel LLC proposed Ketchum Boutique Hotel at 260 & 280 River Street and 251 S. Main Street applications for Planned Unit Development, Conditional Use Permit, and Development Agreement hearings – Director of Planning & Building John Gaeddert

Mayor Neil Bradshaw summarized the previous Council meeting regarding the proposed Boutique Marriott. He turned the meeting over to the applicant to highlight the changes.

Nick Blayden advised that they have had an open house and heard from the public and they are here to show the changes they have made.

Justin Heppler with JG Architects showed a power point outlining the Top Ten things that have changed from the last meeting. He went over the 4 waivers that PEG is asking for and what can be done with each of them. He went onto show renderings of the hotel, talked about deliveries and loading zone areas and the changes they have made at Sherri Newlands request. Justin Heppler talked about the Access off of highway 75 and about their study and where they stand now. Justin Kepler went onto talk about sustainability, showed the updated floor plans and the massing of the building. He touched base on the employee housing plans and where they stand.

Mayor Neil Bradshaw opened the meeting for public comment.

Heidi Scherthanner thanked the Marriott for the improvements they presented.

Jima Rice thanked PEG for the improvements. She advised that P & Z did a lousy job and pushed their job off on council. She said this still is not a small enough mass and suggested getting rid of employee housing and contribute in lieu and to get rid of the roof top bar. Jima Rice went onto talk about the 2014 Comp Plan and asked council to do their job with the public in mind. She distributed a handout to the council regarding the Comp plan.

Sun Valley Economic Development Executive Director Harry Griffith talked about the Economic impact of the hotel saying this project is worth $1.6 M dollars to our community. It directly impacts/tourism and stressed the importance of this project. He talked about the jobs this creates and about the number of new visitors this will bring to town. Harry Griffith said that the 23-employee housing units is not to be sneezed at. He talked about the contribution to LOT that this project will bring in and advised that the Marriott brand will put Ketchum on the map. Mayor Bradshaw questioned Harry Griffith's source for the data presented? Harry Griffith explained that he received his information from the PEG group and data that he accumulated in the past. It's a consistent input and output model that has been done in the community.

Lucy Berrett questioned the infrastructure in town and if the City has addressed this type of growth. Parking is an issue and our roads are in bad shape. She questioned the amount of people this project may bring in, and voiced concern over the hospital being able to handle it.

Mickey Garcia said P & Z did a wonderful job. He is pleased with the design. He said the project looks great. The people who are against this are selfish.

John Sahlberg lives in Trail creek Crossing and is directly affected by this proposal. He talked about the references to Jackson and park City. He wants to live in Ketchum. He is against the waivers and wants to talk about values of Ketchum stating that everybody needs to respect those values.

Susan Niemann is a 40-year resident and agrees with John Sahlberg. She is not sold on the renderings and questioned if the end result will look like the renderings. She stressed to council to be sure the landscaping matches the rendering as well as the building.

Lars Guy, the immediate neighbor, asked for points of clarification on zoning issues. He questioned the T zone as well as the setbacks and certain points along the building. He talked about the relative scale and how it will look to the surrounding residents and said that is dangerous to grant all these waivers.

Dick English, Ketchum resident advised this his long-term concern is utilities and natural resources. He questioned if have we the water to accommodate that demand or the wastewater system able to handle it. He raised many questions regarding electrical power and natural gas?

Kevin Livingston talked about transparency saying there has been an overwhelming opposing response to the number of waivers. He talked about his petition saying there is no way this can be good for the City of Ketchum. The people who are negatively affected pay a lot more taxes than what will be coming in. Mr. Livingston said the project needs to be scaled back and asked the council to listen to the community.

Tom Benson, Ketchum resident, opposes the height variance saying this will devalue the properties around it. He talked about a review that praises the Ketchum area. Tom Benson said that Ketchum does not need to be Park City or Jackson when it grows up.

Susan Sahlberg loves the changes they are working on and it's a great start, but the waivers are big issues. She advised that she is not in agreement with the height waivers.

Grace Summers advised she moved here for the economy. For a young person this is a great opportunity to grow the economy. She advised that she used to live in a corporate city and traveled a lot and talked about Marriott and the amount of people that plan their travel around where Marriott's are. Grace Summers said that if we let this opportunity pass us by, we will never be able to draw in other brands. She questioned the elimination of the bar restaurant space saying that is the area the community would actually use.

DelAnn Benson commended PEG on the amount of work they've done in a short period of time but said it's not enough they should be meeting the standards that are set for that zone. She questioned SVED's presentation and the jobs that will be brought in. She advised that Just because something looks better than what is there now is not a reason to build.

Pat Duggan is very close to the Marriott. She talked about her past This is not a corporate hotel it just has a corporate name. She advised that the Marriott needs to find another location. It is the wrong spot. P & Z should have looked more thoroughly at the location.

Jim Laski represent the Limelight residents HOA. He talked about the people speaking for and against the project. The major concern is Hwy 75 and River St. He thinks some of the proposals are not legitimate. He is opposed the angle parking scenario as well as the loading zone. He talked about not using semi-trucks and that not being true. The time their proposing for deliveries is not possible. He talked about backing into the loading dock and the fact that the housing proposed at today's meeting is different than what is in the packet. Hwy 75 and River St. are his biggest concern.

Ed Johnson, Ketchum resident, advised that there is no reason why the housing should be onsite. He encouraged council to move the housing offsite.

Mark Penn reviewed the current design and advised that the developer has listened to the public's concern, but more work needs to be done. Biggest problem is with the P & Z Commissioners. He talked about zoning and declared that this creates a bad precedent in Ketchum.

Gary Slette represents Mr. & Mrs. Clotfelter. They are not opposed to the use if it fits within the zoning criteria. His concern is the River St right-of-way for delivery truck parking. His clients are advocating that council look at River St. and come up with alternatives.

Mayor Neil Bradshaw advised the council that he would like to talk about Circulation, issues then encroachment and, lastly, the 4 waivers. He asked Council if circulation should come off Hwy 75 or River St. He introduced Kordel Brayley, an independent engineer that the City hired. Kordel Brayley recommends the access be off River St. Councilor Jim Slanetz asked about eliminating the left-hand turn. Mr. Brayley said that has not been looked at, but he thinks it's better to have two locations to make left hand turns. Council President Michael David talked about the changes that ITD will be making and stressed the importance of this fitting into the plan. Michael David agrees with the River St access but would continue to examine the space for the delivery trucks. All Councilors agree with the River St. entrance.

Mayor Neil Bradshaw questioned the council on their preference on the encroachment proposal referencing page 86 and 87 of the packet. Mayor would like to keep the middle of the road as the middle of the right of way. He would not have the diagonal parking and adjust the rest accordingly. It will reduce the size of the plaza a little bit and makes the cross walk from Peg to the Limelight a little longer but is consistent. Mayor Bradshaw asked Kordel Brayley if he sees any issues with this. Kordel Brayley said there is not a difference regarding traffic issues. All councilors agreed.

Mayor Neil Bradshaw went on to talk about the waivers. He asked the Council about the height waivers, soul of town and the entrance way. Councilor Courtney Hamilton questioned the height. She talked about the waivers before them and public perspective. She talked about height and the need for a waiver. It would be good to come down to the 35'. She does not know if the 4' will change the view corridor.

Councilor Amanda Breen talked about the benefits of employee housing and said eliminating public housing would be eliminating the main public benefit. Councilor Courtney Hamilton suggested building affordable housing on another site in Ketchum. Amanda Breen said it is important to stress that we are not ignoring the zoning code. Council making these decisions is required in the Tourist Zone and they decide on the public benefit of the community. Councilor Jim Slanetz agrees with Amanda Breen but said this is a philosophical question on where the town is headed and went onto talk about FAR. Mayor Bradshaw said it appears like were fitting a square peg in a round hole. He would like to see the applicant conform to the 1.6 FAR. It may lead to employee housing onsite or maybe offsite. He is appreciative of the efforts he but does not want to give the FAR waiver. He said he thinks they are close on the set back but not there. Council President Michael David asked for clarification on the height. Director of Planning & Building John Gaeddert explained the height. Nick Blyden explained how they got to 1.6. Councilor Amanda Breen does not feel as strongly about the FAR. Councilor Jim Slanetz agrees with Amanda Breen and the current proposed FAR. Keeping employee housing is more important to him. Jim Slanetz is good with the setbacks but is unsure about the height.

Councilor Courtney Hamilton likes the setback from River Street. She is more comfortable with traffic flows. She would love to see the FAR meet the standard and thinks employee housing is crucial and it needs to be in Ketchum. If employee housing is pushed offsite, parking issues would be added to what we currently have. Courtney Hamilton thinks they are going to need a height waiver regardless. She does not think it has a huge impact. Based on the public comment anything they can do to reduce mass and density is what they need to do.

Council President Michael David would like to see them get to the FAR but not at the expense of the employee housing. He talked about the rooftop restaurant bar as an amenity for the guests as well as the Ketchum residents.

Mayor Neil Bradshaw asked about waivers on the west side and the neighbors. Councilor Amanda Breen said that it needs to be a more pleasant transition. She feels for the neighbors. She also believes that the public benefits and the economic contribution makes the height waiver acceptable as it is.

Councilor Courtney Hamilton talked about setbacks saying that anything you can do on the west side pushes it to the east. Pushing it closer to the highway effects more people than those on the west side. Mayor Neil Bradshaw asked about minimum lot size. Council President Michael David is fine with this waiver. This end of town has become very vibrant and thinks this is a good area for a hotel. Councilor Courtney Hamilton said if we ever wanted to do a PUD in the downtown corridor, we would need to grant a waiver. All Councilors agreed.

Mayor Neil Bradshaw asked the applicant if they wanted to give any clarification. Nick Blayden and Council clarified all the points that were made today. There was further conversation regarding the west side of the building. Councilor Amanda Breen said she does not think the council is asking for too much more, but we need to continue it. Attorney Bill Gigray advised that the applicant needs to get council approval prior to going back to the P & Z level. The public will need to have time to review revised plans prior to coming back to the meeting. Mayor asked the applicant to be prepared to release the plans on January 6, 2020.

Councilor Courtney Hamilton thanked the applicant for their work.
